Boston — 617.557.5960

Jordan S. Kaplan's practice focuses on defending managed care organizations, plan administrators, employers, and fiduciaries in disputes involving ERISA, health, disability, and life insurance coverage. He also represents clients in claims and coverage matters under individual policies and group welfare benefit plans, including life, accidental death, and disability insurance disputes.

During law school, Jordan served as a judicial intern to the Honorable Scott L. Kafker of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts. His responsibilities included drafting bench memoranda, synthesizing case law, and analyzing petitions for appellate review. He also worked as a legal intern in the Major Crimes Unit at the U.S. Attorney's Office, preparing motions, responses, and pleadings in cases ranging from armed robberies of federal postal workers to unlawful firearm possession.
