Patrick A. Zlogar is the Director of Government Relations + Government Affairs for the Roffe Group of Robinson+Cole. Patrick has been lobbying in New York State for over 25 years. He began his career in the financial services industry, where for 10 years, he represented major lending institutions before New York State's legislative and executive branches.

Following his tenure in the financial services industry, Patrick began lobbying for clients from various industries, including insurance, energy, manufacturing, health care, and online commerce. Drawing upon his decades of experience in Albany, Patrick has built a stellar reputation for successfully guiding clients through the changing legislative, political, and regulatory environment in New York State and its political subdivisions.

In addition to his lobbying efforts, Patrick has managed grassroots lobbying strategies, administered political action committees, and served as a key liaison with corporate and non-profit executives to guide government initiatives.

He received his Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration from Lebanon Valley College and his Master's in Public Administration from Pennsylvania State University. He and his wife, Cindy, have three adult children and reside in Clifton Park, NY.
